

Preparing for a COVID-safe Halloween

- Halloween will look different this year. It has to. Our COVID risk has never been higher.
- The CDC has outlined safer and less-safe options for celebrating the holiday. New Mexico will opt for the safer option.
  - According to the CDC, high-risk activities that must be avoided include door-to-door trick-or-treating, in-person costume parties, haunted houses and more
  - Safer options include pumpkin carving at home, costume contests at home, scary movie nights
- For more family-friendly COVID-safe ideas, visit TogetherNM.org/Halloween